Five Dialectical Tensions Principles © 2023-09-29

Orange Belt Question: What are the five Dialectical Tensions Principles?

Orange Belt Succinct Answer:

1. Dialectical tensions are the internal and external tugs and pulls we feel trying to maintain homeostasis (comfort) between opposite truths on all levels of TRIPS.
2. Ecclesiastes 3:1-8 are common Dialectical Tensions
3. Due to dialectical tensions our goals (a.k.a. interests) and plans constantly change.
4. A group is formed when one or more people share one or more dialectical tensions.
5. Use “And” to list pertinent dialectical tensions.

Why These Principles Are Important:

- Knowing these principles helps me give myself and others grace amidst life’s complexity and constantly changing goals and plans.

Illustrations of the Principles:

- Group dynamics . . . imagine many people suspended in lawn chairs with some (not all) strings tied to everyone else’s chairs. Everyone is tugging on strings to adjust them, while trying not to tip themselves or anyone else. Woohoo!
